

Science for Breakfast

Meetings for networking and knowledge sharing

Medicon Village is a vibrant meeting point facilitating knowledge sharing, networking, and community building.

One of our business meeting concepts is 'Science for Breakfast', tailored for event hosts interested in showcasing their offerings or sharing academic life science research with businesses, organizations, employees, and visitors at Medicon Village.

4 great reasons to host an event at Medicon Village

No matter if you're out for an elevator pitch to our robust innovation cluster, or a high-profile seminar attracting international VIPs, we provide the competence, network and facility to make it worthwhile.

Having arranged 100 hosted and well attended events in 2024, we feel confident in providing you with proper service for efficient events with strong impact, great reach, and high attendance.

- IMPACT by leveraging our position as the largest value-driven science park in Scandinavia dedicated to life science, as a platform for your business development. We are part of a robust innovation cluster, within walking distance from Lund University, Skåne University Hospital, Max IV, European Spallation Source (ESS), and more.
- REACH in South Sweden as part of Medicon Valley, one of Europe's strongest life science clusters. Our database, network, and +10,000 followers on LinkedIn, together with promotion in our weekly newsletter (+5,000 subscribers), ensure that your event will attract both regional, national and international attention.
- ATTENDANCE by qualified guests in proper numbers (ask for statistics!), using our experience of what works, together with our communication channels to reach out. We attract guests both from outside and within our village – 2,800 scientists, entrepreneurs, and facilitators in 180 businesses/organisations.
- EFFICIENCY with you bringing a presentation, while we handle the rest (bookings, catering, marketing, registration, and more) at a cost beneficial to your budget.
